also expanding rapidly, and the number of pet owners is increasing. many. Therefore, it is profitable to open a pet shop in India. As long as you can operate with integrity and attentiveness, you will have many loyal customers.

The growth of the pet market in India is an inevitable result. The improvement of the economic level and the change of people's mentality have promoted the development of the pet industry. In addition, children have received more advanced educational concepts in school and have a higher acceptance of new things. They are more willing to treat pets as family members.

Higher acceptance of pets also means more profitability, and pet owners in India generally come from upper-class or middle-class families. With the increase in disposable income, purchasing power has increased dramatically. Therefore, the nature of consumption may also change dramatically in the next two decades, and pet parents hope to provide their beloved pets with more quality products.

Different from popular trends in other countries, the Indian pet market has unique characteristics. Pet dogs account for the vast majority of the market share, and pet cats account for only 10% of the total number of pets. Therefore, if you open a pet shop in India, you should focus on dog-related supplies.

You can profit from the following aspects:

Pet grooming

Especially for dogs, regular bathing and grooming will be more beneficial to the dog's health, and the price of dog grooming is usually expensive. As long as you master this craft, you can make a profit even if you don't sell any products.

Pet Boarding

On some holidays or when the owner needs to travel, no one can take care of pets. The cost of pet fostering is very low. You only need to provide a cage, but it can bring high profits.

Pet medical

Pet medical treatment can be said to be very profitable, because pet medical treatment is much more expensive than human medical treatment. As long as you have excellent medical skills or benefit customers, I believe that many people will become your loyal customers.

Live sales

The profit of live sales is very considerable, but the risks are also great. If your pet gets sick or other accidents, it will cause your losses, so you need to decide whether you want to operate this item.

Pet training

Some pets, especially dogs, will make their personality as arrogant as humans because their owners will not raise them or are overly pampered. At this time, pet training is needed. If you train your pets into obedient and well-behaved pets, you will also get a fortune. Not a small profit.

Pet goods

Pet products include snacks, nutritional creams, teething sticks, clothes, toys, dog food, cat food, etc. These products can attract many loyal customers. Among them, dog food and cat food are repetitive consumables that will bring you Huge profits.

Pet food is very important to the health of pets. If we can provide customers with high-quality and inexpensive food, there will be more and more customers.

High-quality pet food requires manufacturers to use the Pet Food Production Line to produce. It has a very strict production process to ensure the nutrition and quality of pet food.
